

BEVERIDGE SOUNDS KEYNOTE AT MOOSE PARTY CONVENTION

Registered in U. S. Patent Office. PRICE ONE CENT.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—The national convention of the Progressive, or Bull Moose party, was to nominate Theodore Roosevelt for the presidency, was held to order at 12:47 p. m. in the Coliseum. Great enthusiasm greeted the part of 2,000 delegates marked the birth of the new political party. The chief feature of the day's program was the speech of former Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana, temporary chairman.

KEYNOTE SPEECH EX-SENATOR BEVERIDGE.
Former Senator Beveridge said:
To carry out our principles was a plain program of constructive form. We mean to tear down believe with us can work with us; or, rather, we declare our allegiance to the party which the people themselves have founded.

that which is wrong out of us and where we turn down our men and what is right and fitted to them. We harken to the call of present. We mean to make fair conditions as they are and such needs of the people who are on it today. That we may do this is found a part, though which all

For this party comes from the grass roots. It has grown from the soil of the people. It has been the vitality of the people's strong conviction. The people have work to be done and our party is here to do that work.

Like other free people, most of us are neither more progressive nor reactionary, liberal nor conservative. The neutrals do exist. Yet today neither of the old parties are either wholly progressive or wholly reactionary.

Sometimes in both Democratic and Republican States the progressives get control of the party locally and then the reactionaries negate the same party in the same State or this process is reversed. So there is a wide-wide unity of principle in either party, no stability of persons, no clear-cut and sincere program of one party at frank and open war with an equally clear-cut and sincere program of an opposing party.

The Solid South.
Today, two Americas are politically shattered by sectionalism. Through the two old parties the tragedy of our history is continued; and one great geographical part of the Republic is separated from other parts of the Republic by an ideological parti-

The South has men and women as genuinely progressive and others as genuinely reactionary as those in other parts of our country. Yet, for well-known reasons, those sincere and honest southern progressive and reactionaries vote together in a single party, which is selling the progressive heresy.

The root of the wrongs which hurt the people is the fact that the people's government has been driven away from them. Their government must be given back to the people as the first and chief purpose of the Progressive party is to make men the rule of the people. The rule of the people means, first, the people themselves shall be nominated, as well as elected, all candidates for office, including senators and presidents of the United States. What profiteth it the people if they elect the electors, while the invisible government does the managing?

The rule of the people means that

When the people's legislators make a law which hurts the people, the people themselves may reject it. The rule of the people means that when the people's legislators refuse to pass a law which the people need, the people themselves may pass it. The rule of the people means that when the people's employers do not do the people's work well and boycott the people may discharge them exactly as a business man discharges employees who do not do their work well and honestly. The people's officials are the people's servants, not the people's masters.

On Business Legislation.

We must end the abuses of business by striking down those abuses instead of striking down the business itself. We must try to make little business big and all business honest, instead of trying to make big business little and put nothing but remains under the law.

By the decrees of our courts, under the Sherman law, few true nightclubs flourish on earth, have actually been licensed, in the practical operation, so as to bring everything they ever committed.

Under the decrees of the courts the Oil and Tobacco Trusts still exist, police justice and already have done so. They still can force patented stock and rarely will do so. They still can throttle other business men and the United Clear Stores Company now is doing just that. They still can corrupt our politics and this moment can tolerate the most corrupt boy, and refuse to reveal surface of my soul. Before, his brother street, Cambridge.

SHEEHAN TO RUN.

John F. Sheehan, prominent in Ward 9 district, today announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the office of mayor.

Johnson's Life History in Ring From Coward to Bully in a Night

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

Thirty years of pugilistic history have passed since Jack Johnson, who has just announced his retirement from the ring, fought his first professional battle in the roped arena. The thirty-four year old Johnson has won the crown of the titleholder. This was Johnson most certainly to be a wonderful fighter, for he is the first member of the black race to achieve that honor since George Fitzsimmons. No less wonderful is the story of his career. Few of the characteristics of the Southern Negro have been overlooked in his life. Jack Johnson was a coward; and he was a prize in his lifetime. In his youth this man who has turned up as a champion pugilist, was a coward; and he admits that, too.

Perhaps he was too lazy even to fight for the money the other boys in the ring were getting. He was a coward, and he was a prize in his lifetime. In his youth this man who has turned up as a champion pugilist, was a coward; and he admits that, too.

He preferred playing "hooky" to school. Jack Johnson was born in Galveston, Texas, on March 31, 1878. He was the next to youngest of six children. When a pickaninny he cared little for school. As a result, the education Jack can boast is a meagre few years of learning.

$20,000 Highest Bid for Ad and Packey; Gibson Is Not Crazy

Benton Harbor Promoter Hopes to Land Eddie McGorty and Howie Morrow for Labor Day.

By SOL PLEX.

We have it straight from one view to Billy Ring, the Madison Square Garden promoter in New York, that if Packey McFarland and Ad Wagner sign to fight before his club on Labor Day they won't get more than $20,000; also that Gibson does not think they would swing over $25,000, or $30,000 at the outside. This is a lot of money, at that.

So it is decidedly evident that Wagner will not get a $15,000 guarantee from the Billy New York promoter. In fact, Gibson has laughed at the terms demanded by both Wagner and McFarland. He has said his decision on the fight that no top round, middle-class fight, no matter how famous the contestants, is worth more than $20,000.

McFarland is willing to let the $20,000 go, and he is getting a million dollars, provided they will listen to his terms on the day. This is not a joke. McFarland is serious. He is dead set on getting a $15,000 guarantee. He is not willing to let the $20,000 go.

Little Bobbie's Pa

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

Bobbie, and Pa, to me last night, when he was reading the spring paper to the paper, I see that our old friend Speaker is booming along in great style

Well, please, and Pa, to me last night, when he was reading the spring paper to the paper, I see that our old friend Speaker is booming along in great style

Glory O'Brien, debutante though she was, turned as she was to the ways of the world, felt a rich bloom and fine countenance was Lord Everhope

Wonderful, and Pa. As I was saying, Bobbie, the Red Sox have got the pennant and now claimed that all they need to win is to go down to a department store and get the flag pole and the bunting. I guess I won't cash this year and send a few of my Philadelphia friends looking for

Robert, and Pa. He has, if there is anything I like it to see Connie Mack & his followers getting the sunset took out of their heads

Robert I ask you to listen to me a minute and stop that foolish baseball talk said Pa. I have a faded recollection to you from this happy story. Listen

Lord Everhope passed into the flower-like face of the girl who was soon to be a bride. The exquisite contour of her face was wonderful. Her rosy lips were half-parted, like the first parting petals of a pansy. Her perfumed breath, sweet as white clover in a June meadow, seemed to sweep his eager face

Come to me, Lord Everhope. Glory O'Brien cried like a little wood nymph into the shattering arms of her bridegroom, and ended on his enraptured shoulder—smothered from sheer happiness, lost that divine, lost Ma

It is, indeed, and Pa. But don't forget his thing, Bobbie, after we have got the flag won we still have a fast team to beat, probably the Giants. Always remember that there's many a slip between one post and two. We must copy the world's prize this year

Then, Ma took her book of the Summer reading and went into the library to read

The Garden Muff, With or Without Herbaceous Border

TRIMMINGS FROM YOUR GARDEN BEDS: THE NEW FASHION OF MUFFS MADE OF REAL FLOWERS We illustrate a new development in the use of real flowers for trimming a fashion which has of late become increasingly popular. The latest idea, as our photographs show, is to utilize them for the adornment of the muff, and it must be admitted that the results are very charming. The idea of some modern muffs would permit of great extent of treatment—almost, it might be said of landscape gardening effects. Here, only the smaller kinds of muffs are shown, but even these, it will be seen, lend themselves to a great variety of floral decoration.

Daysey Mayme and Her Flocks

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE

THERE are few flocks that can take up after he passed sixty that do not become complicated. Time begins to fly so fast with him he wonders when he takes off his clothes at night why he went to the trouble of getting them on in the morning.

He grows surprised when he goes to church to find how many near his own age are falling asleep during service.

He reads the death notice of a friend with fear, if the friend is a few years younger, with a feeling of assurance if the friend is a few years older.

If the years have done nothing else to him, they have changed his opinion of what constitutes a good thing.

He thought he was a bird away back there when he was young. He is now satisfied he is the worm.

He may dye his mustache, but he would give his years away if he took off his hair about the moment he gets home.

He discovers that his wife, who is his glory, is getting old at least fifteen years before he makes a similar discovery about himself.

He begins to associate the change of his seasons with a change of underwear, and loses his enthusiasm.

"To looking backward, he begins to realize that he has wasted a terribly big pile of money in having a little bit of a good time.

He begins to feel a deep gratitude toward those who know him and still like him.

The number of times the hero in the story has surprised when he goes to church to find how many near his own age are falling asleep during service.

He reads the death notice of a friend with fear, if the friend is a few years younger, with a feeling of assurance if the friend is a few years older.

If the years have done nothing else to him, they have changed his opinion of what constitutes a good thing.

He thought he was a bird away back there when he was young. He is now satisfied he is the worm.

As a Man Gets Old

He would rather gossip about wickedness than change in it.

When he was young, and didn't know if he would hatch out a peacock or a goose, he had ambition to hatch out a peacock, and make a showing in the world.

Now he is older, and realizes that he has hatched out a good deal of a goose, but less ambitious and more charitable.

He becomes a philosopher, and it is his philosophy that he finds his life happier

Do You Know That—

Ernest Fieldrich, a Gottengen carpenter, of eighty-four years of age, has cheerfully looked death in the face for twenty years. His first illness, which came when he was sixty, suggested to him that, being no relative, he should provide for his own support, and as soon as he recovered he set to work and himself he effected, which he placed conveniently beside his bed.

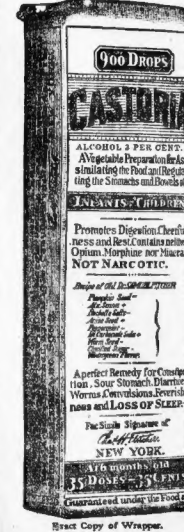

He discovered that his wife, who is his glory, is getting old at least fifteen years before he makes a similar discovery about himself.

Counterfeits.

"Read what one of the GREATEST NEWSPAPERS IN AMERICA has to say on this subject:

"The manufacturers of Castoria have been compelled to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars to familiarize the public with the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. This has been necessitated by reason of pirates counterfeiting the Castoria trademark. This counterfeiting is a crime not only against the proprietors of Castoria, but against the growing generation. All persons should be careful to see that Castoria bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, if they would guard the health of their children. Parents, and mothers in particular, ought to carefully examine the Castoria advertisements which have been appearing in this paper, and to remember that the wrapper of every bottle of genuine Castoria bears the fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, under whose supervision it has been manufactured continuously for over thirty years.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Letters from Prominent Druggists addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Conger Bros. of St. Paul, Minn., says: "Fletcher's Castoria is certainly full of merit and worthy of recommendation."

C. G. A. Loder, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "For 30 years we have sold Fletcher's Castoria and are pleased to state that it has given universal satisfaction."

The Scholls Drug Co., of Denver, Colo., says: "Fletcher's Castoria has surely become a household word. Scarcely every family where there are children uses it."

Hosland & Mansfield, of Boston, Mass., says: "We have nothing but good to say about your Castoria and we do not hesitate to give our unqualified endorsement."

Riker's Drug Stores, of New York City, says: "Fletcher's Castoria is one of the oldest and most popular preparations in our stores. We have nothing but good to say about it."

Wolf-Wilson Drug Co., of St. Louis, Mo., says: "Of the thousands of patent medicines for which we have demand there are a very few of them that we can conscientiously recommend and your Castoria is included in the few."

D. R. Dyke & Co., of Chicago, Ill., says: "The increasing demand for your Castoria shows that a discriminating public is not slow to seek out a remedy of merit and one convinced that it does all and even more than claimed they do not hesitate to recommend it to their friends."

The Owl Drug Co., of San Francisco, Cal., says: "We have always been a believer in the 'original man protection' and have been particular never to sell anything but the genuine and original Castoria (Fletcher's). We have many calls every day for this article from people who say they would not be without it in their homes."

Up-to-the-Minute Jokes

Fogg has said the meanest things any man ever capable of saying. When Mrs. F. left him alone to the house he other evening she remarked:

"You won't be long, dear."
"No," he replied, "I won't when you are at home. The sooner you know, the better."

Belle: "But do you think you and Jack are suited to each other?"
Sally: "Oh, perfectly. Our tastes are quite similar. I don't have very much for him, and he doesn't care very much for me."

"What's become of that fellow 'Swindler'?"
"Oh, he opened a shop."
"Doing well?"
"No—doing that. He was caught in the act."

Think (the whoopster): "Well, how many orders did you get yesterday?"
Gink the salesman: "I got two orders in one day."

Think: "What were they?"
Gink: "You was to get out and the other was to star out."

"I want you, sir, to correct the statement you made recently that I drink like a fish."
"All right, but if you will stop a moment to think, a fish drinks nothing but water, and only."

"I like George, but he is such a small snake."
"Well, it's better to have a small snake than none at all."

Tuberculosis Medicine
Saved This Man's Life

Pneumonia is a serious disease, and often lays the foundation for chronic lung trouble—asthma, tuberculosis, etc. After Pneumonia, or any other or similar cold, it is wise to take Dekman's Alternative and give the lungs a chance to recover. Read of the recovery in this case:

223 No. 1st St., Philadelphia, Pa.
"Gentlemen: I was suffering from a very serious advanced lung, which followed a bad attack of pneumonia. My physician and specialist declared my case hopeless. I am very thankful to you and the Almighty God for the change of health your medicine has brought me."

Read on, so as that I have fully recovered my health, having been cured for some time. I am now in good health. Dekman's Alternative is effective in Pneumonia, Asthma, Hay Fever, Croup, and Croup, and in all cases of lung trouble. It is a safe and reliable remedy, and is sold in all drug stores. Dekman's Alternative is sold in all drug stores. Dekman's Alternative is sold in all drug stores. Dekman's Alternative is sold in all drug stores.

BATHING GIRLS. WIN $10 DOLL!

Well, here she is—the bathing girl! She wins a crisp $10 note.

The AMERICAN photographer snapped her at Beverly Beach yesterday when she was about to enter the water. She was talking with a friend at the time. Perhaps her friend might recognize her. So there.

Now, the AMERICAN is to snap more bathing girls at Beverly Beach, and give away more crisp $10 notes. Therefore, the bathing girls may have an opportunity of seeing their pictures, as they go on the look-out. The camera man will visit the beach every Saturday and Sunday.

Photographs of bathers will appear in the AMERICAN every Saturday and Sunday. It may be of a Boston girl, a Rockland girl, or some other girl from any town about Boston.

No girls look prettier. The camera will catch you as you are, and John, Jim or Tom may get into the picture. So there. Girls, a final word. Get busy. Put on an original bathing suit, a neat one. Don't forget the nice bathing cap. Look beautiful and be sure and go to bathing at Beverly. Then, when you come out of the water, if you are not snapped before you go in, the photographer will be on hand to catch you next Saturday and Sunday.

HERE SHE IS, THE BATHING GIRL, AND $10 AWAITS HER

Give the Boys and Girls of East Boston a Waterfront Playground NOW

The Children of the Most Congested Section Have Not Been Given a Fair Deal by the City—To Make Good Men and Women of Them They Must Have—and at Once—a Waterfront Recreation Pier and Playground in the Ward 2 Section.

Just now, when New York is in the throes of shocking revelations that have followed a murder by hired assassins, it is well that the people of Boston have their attention called to conditions in East Boston that breed just such crime as has made the metropolis of this country stand aghast.

Boston should have no district like the underworld of New York. And yet in a city where there is a large section in which there is no place for children to play under proper guardianship; where they are forced to mingle in the crowded streets with all sorts and conditions of men, when they want a breath of out-door air; when they have to slink under gates and dodge watchmen and the police to get to a dock—when all this happens, AS IT IS NOW DOING IN THE WARD 2 SECTION OF EAST BOSTON—how can the boys and girls help but become contaminated before they grow to man and womanhood!

If this sounds a little too harsh, let us cite a few East Boston facts of what happened within a year:

Fact No. 1—Two boys between eleven and twelve years old broke into a store with a jimmy in true burglar fashion, tore open the money till and stole $107.

Fact No. 2—A boy of eleven stole jewelry valued at $100. While his case was pending the same boy stole jewelry worth $78.

Fact No. 3—There were before the Juvenile Court 249 children in East Boston within the year.

Fact No. 4—Small children, policemen say, are often in the streets at 1 and 2 o'clock in the morning.

These facts were gathered at random. They are cited as illustrations. They indicate that SOMETHING OUGHT TO BE DONE AT ONCE for the children of this section of East Boston.

What is needed AT ONCE is a playground on the Summer street water front. The children in that congested section have no place for recreation. Boys, in order to ENJOY THE PRIVILEGES THAT BOYS SHOULD HAVE, JUST TO BE BOYS, break the laws and are arrested. A boy NEVER FORGETS HIS FIRST ARREST.

It may frighten him from committing a depredation forever, or it MAY JUST GIVE HIM A TASTE FOR CRIME.

A recreation pier with a beach front may save many of the boys and girls of East Boston.

When the old residents, who owned the property, lived in East Boston, the situation was different. They exercised a restraining influence over conditions. But now the property to a large extent is in the hands of non-residents.

Under these conditions IT IS TIME THE CITY STEPPED IN AND DID SOMETHING FOR THE SAFETY OF THE YOUNG PEOPLE.

There is already $50,000 from the Quincy Shaw estate in the hands of the authorities for a playground such as is needed. That is about one-third of what is wanted.

Twelve hundred citizens of East Boston have called this matter to the attention of the City Council. It is a GRAVE MATTER. Somebody who ought to have the interests of the city AS A WHOLE AT HEART is asleep to the interests of East Boston.

WAKE UP! SAVE THE BOYS AND GIRLS OF EAST BOSTON. NOTHING IS OF GREATER VITAL INTEREST TO THE FUTURE OF BOSTON THAN THE PROPER CARE AND DEVELOPMENT OF HER BOYS AND GIRLS.

The Drudge Husband

By WINIFRED BLACK

"MY husband is a good man. He has never said an unkind word to me since I've been his wife. He is hard working, devoted, honest, but he is a drudge—just a plain every-day drudge, and he never will be anything else."

"My school girl companions who married when I did have gone on and on with their husbands. One of them has an automobile, one has a beautiful home of her own and she has just gone to Europe on a pleasure trip and here I am tied down to the drudge in the same house we took when we were married."

"My girls go to a public school and learn public school ways. I don't mind for myself, I am not mercenary, but I do hate to see my poor daughters grow up to this miserable rut."

"I simply can't stand it. I have a chance now to go into business for myself. It will take me away from home and I am going to put my girls to school and go, wouldn't you?"

"Nice residential letter, isn't it? And the worst of it is that it is miserably understanding (true, every study of it, and then some more). I know a dozen just such cases. They differ in particulars—one man has a pretty house, one draws a salary, one gets wages, one man has girls to support, one has boys, and one has only his wife, who despises him for being what she loves to call a 'drudge'."

"And yet, somehow, I always wonder how much better the woman who prides herself on her 'ambition' is than the drudge who irritates her so. It is very easy to be ambitious for some one else. I wonder how much harder that same woman would make with the very 'drudge' does so faithfully and well."

Faith Makes Works

What does your husband have to make him 'ambitious,' dear woman? How do you help him, pray tell? By nagging him and making fun of him? That's a good way, isn't it? Why don't you try another one for a change?

I've seen a very commonplace man made over into a comparative success, just by the faith his wife had in him.

Have you tried believing in the drudge to see what that would do? You can't nag a man at home and expect him to bear himself like a man away from home. It takes courage and spirit and will power to fight a way up in the world, and if you take all these things out of a man before he leaves the house, what weapon has he with which to make the fight.

"Ambitious!" How do you know whether he's ambitious or not? What do you call ambition, anyway? The wish to get rich?

Yes, noble work that is, isn't it? Selling the body and the soul and the heart and the mind to leave a free monument and a rich widow? It's all well enough to live to get rich, but why make yourself believe that you have "high ideals" just because you want an automobile and want the drudge to get it, some way, any way, only get it?

Don't be Too Sure

Don't be too sure that you are so much cleverer and so much finer in every way than the drudge. He may have his own ideas on the subject, even though he does not think it necessary to nag you about them.

What shall you do? Why, wait in the time of common sense is there for you to do but to wait to your husband and make the best of it? It's good nature, good sense and good religion, nothing else will do it all.

Your children? What do you expect to make of your children if you run away from their father because he doesn't "get on?"

I'd rather give my children their start in life in a happy home, a home where there's love and trust, and faith, and courage, and patience, and nobility of heart, than to send them to the street school on earth and pay for that schooling in the bitter cost of estrangement from all that really counts.

You can get "schooling" in the books—lots of it—and books come cheap in this day. You can't learn patience, and love, and truth, and nobility in any book in the world but in the good old book of life, and that is the street school on earth and pay for that schooling in the bitter cost of estrangement from all that really counts.

Forget all this "higher ideal" twaddle; stop thinking of the automobile we can't get and go to work—in the place where we belong. In our own home, with our own children and the man who loves them.

Get the poor drudge the best breakfast you can buy with the money you have to spend; serve it as prettily as possible, with a smile, too, that counts—oh, how much does it count in their happy hearts.

Put your brain into these blueprints, send your little girls off to school with the "common" children with an "uncommon" song in their happy hearts.

It takes so little to do that—a new job, a little story, a word of extra praise, when they come home waiting for them. You, yourself—not the woman with the corners of her mouth drawn down, the one they're seen at the door so often; put the woman who is mad because she hasn't any automobile, not the woman who is sick with envy because she can't go to Europe, but YOU, the mother they love and understand, the mother they idolize.

At night surprise the drudge with a good dinner, a really good dinner. Give him a smile with it, and the same look you had when you thought he was the One Great Man of the earth. Why, even the office boy will notice a different set to the shoulders of the "drudge" when he gets to work tomorrow, the set of the shoulders of a man who is loved and looked up to and believed in. Maybe he will come to be a drudge.

Give him a chance; give him a chance. Forget your dreams and your plans, forget everything but the drudge and the children. The drudge who stood by you in your hour of agony, the drudge who would cut off his hand at the wrist to make you and the children happy.

Life Is With You

Come, come, my dear, life is with you, good, wholesome, sensible, busy, kindly, generous, simple life—life with its thrills and the drink to slake them, life with its fatigue and the good rest to relieve it. Life, with its tears and laughter—for you can't spare either of these twin slaves and really live. Live every minute of it, with your heart and your brain and your soul, and win the right to the story of it every minute you breathe.

And peace go with you, you and the good kind drudge, who may not look like a drudge after all, who gives him a chance, and the children who will rise up and call you blessed, as they would never have to do in any school except the school of a happy and so honest home.

The Education of the Voter

No. 13—The Force That Governs
A Great Army of Nearly 325,000 Men and Women Carry on the Nation's Business

By THOMAS TAPPER

AT the present moment quite a number of prominent men are being discussed as candidates for the office of President. The final choice next November may be one of them, or it may be a man whose name is at present unknown.

When your vote has helped to elect a President he becomes the President-elect until the next 4th of March. Then he is inaugurated and turns his attention to business. His immediate associates are his cabinet, representing nine departments of government. Each member of the cabinet takes up a department of necessary work of the Government and becomes responsible for it to the President. These men help the President bring matters to his attention and enter into conference with him on all questions that arise.

This is an important body of men in the public service. There are two others—the Senate, over which the Vice-President of the United States presides, and the House of Representatives. The Senate is composed of two Senators from each State. The House of Representatives is chosen from each State on the basis of population, there being one representative to every 135,000 inhabitants, approximately. This gives, for example, to Delaware one member of the House, while New York has thirty-seven.

About 500 Officers Perform Their Duties in Washington

The officers of the Government thus far enumerated are about 500 in number, and they all perform their official duties in Washington. The entire organization of men and women active in carrying on the business of the National Government numbers far above this, the total being nearly 325,000, inclusive of the army and navy.

About 10 per cent. of this great army of workers reside in Washington. The remainder, nearly 290,000 in number, are scattered over the country, and some are sent to foreign countries to represent our Government.

It is interesting to ask how these 325,000 workers in behalf of the Government secure their positions. About 8,000 of them are appointed by the President, subject to confirmation by the Senate. Others are appointed by heads of departments. In order that heads of departments may secure the best service for their purposes there has been established for their assistance a civil service commission. This commission examines applicants for positions and reports on their fitness.

When a candidate has passed the required examination set by the civil service commission, his name is referred to the department head as an available public servant. If he passes with a high average he will receive an early appointment. He keeps his position on his merits and conduct, but he may be removed by the President at any time, with or without cause.

The Government by Examination Tries to Get the Best Employees

"The purpose of the civil service is 'to regulate and improve the civil service of the United States.' This means that, by examination, the Government tries to secure the people best fitted for those positions that do not fall within the direct power of the President. About 238,000 positions are subject to competitive appointment. These positions carry an aggregate of salaries amounting to nearly $200,000,000 annually.

If you want to become part of this executive force and enter a civil service examination you must first be an application blank. In order to be eligible for examination you must be a citizen of the United States and not given to the use of intoxicating liquors. Sex, color, religion and political affiliation are not considered.

Besides the qualification of citizenship the commission requires the facts as to your legal residence, your health and general character. There is a wide variety of positions open to applicants on the examination basis, details of which may be had by application to the Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C. The commission issues a manual of examinations, a list of civil service rules, an annual report of the work of the commission. In the manual of examination you will find a list of places and dates where and when examinations are to be held, and a list of rules by which your paper will be rated if you enter as a candidate.

The appointment of so large a number of people to public service on the basis of individual test and record is one of the most progressive signs a nation can possibly take.

"Civil Service" Means the Service of Citizenship

Now you may be entirely satisfied with your own work and not care to enter the service of the Government. In that case stop a moment and think over the expression "civil service" means SERVICE OF CITIZENSHIP. This service of citizenship implies that you will give your attention to your business, or your job, whatever it is, and carry it out to the best of your ability for the sake of the Republic at large, because, by that very simple process, you will assure yourself of prosperity, but you contribute it to all. Through this form of service you and your work are stamped with the same legend: E PLURIBUS UNUM, one of many, which means all desire business for good purpose—Common Prosperity.

THE story of John Abner Mead, Governor of Vermont, is one to encourage every American boy who has his way to make.

Governor Mead was a farmer's boy, up in Otter Creek Valley.

He worked his way through that sort of common schooling which today is the privilege of the poorest.

He denied himself, that he might take a course in medicine.

He was graduated an M. D., the only young man in his class without a frock coat.

He opened an office in Rutland. For a long time he used it also as his chamber.

In 1868 he took over a great industry which had failed no less than four times.

That industry is now doing a business of about $1,500,000 a year, one of the great successes of New England.

Governor Mead has written the leading editorial for next Sunday's AMERICAN.

Such a man, with such a career—is he a Civil War veteran, too, by the way—is well worth studying.

Read Governor Mead in next Sunday's AMERICAN on "Worry."
